Virtual Sounds of Love in Early Childhood: Music Therapy Class Helps Your Baby Grow

Program Description

Sounds of Love in Early Childhood is a research-based music therapy class to aid your baby's growth and development. Through music and play activities, parents learn new ways to help their babies grow. For our families of NICU babies, it's especially important. Parents and babies deserve a chance to "catch up" on some early building blocks of development and work on their future together. This class is led by board-certified music therapists with special training in NICU Music Therapy. We tailor the class to meet each child's developmental needs.

Participants also receive a weekly resource sheet, which includes a weekly featured song and bi-weekly sign language songs where we learn the signs together.

Program Date and Time

Sounds of Love in Early Childhood meets on Wednesday mornings online for 45 minutes for six weeks.

Nationwide Children's Hospital Music Therapists

Lelia Emery, MMT, MT-BC, has been a NICU music therapist at Nationwide Children's Hospital for more than five years and has several years of experience working with young children and their families. In addition to working full time in the NICU, she is the Nationwide Children's Music Therapy Internship Director and both coordinates and conducts research with the Maitre Neurodevelopmental Lab within the Perinatal Research Institute. She received her bachelor's in Music Therapy from the University of Alabama and completed her master's in Music Therapy from Shenandoah University with an emphasis in developmental music therapy for older infants in the NICU.

Julie Renato, MM, MT-BC, recently joined the NICU Music Therapy team at Nationwide Children's from Phoenix Children's Hospital where she started their first music therapy program and expanded it into two full-time positions within one year. Julie has over five years professional experience working with children, adults, and families in various settings including hospitals, homes, skilled nursing facilities and community clinics. Julie holds advanced training in NICU Music Therapy and is a Fellow in the Academy of Neurologic Music Therapy, specializing in the use of music intervention to support neurodevelopment and facilitate rehabilitation. Julie received her master's in Music Therapy from Ohio University in 2015, with an emphasis on neurologic music processing.
